Tariff and The When

While it is true that the new tariff law admitting wool free after Jan. 1, 1895, does not directly affect Clothing manufactured for this fall's trade, it does, as a matter of course, outline distinctively the conditions which are to govern the Clothing trade of the future. Next year Clothing will be cheaper.

THE WHEN

Always in the forefront of the times, does not propose to wait until next year, or until the new law goes into effect, but begins now with its present fall stock and places the product that has been in process of manufacture during the past year upon the future basis of values.

We inaugurate, commencing to-morrow, the greatest slaughter of seasonable Clothing that has ever occurred in the history of the clothing trade in this State. The knife cuts to the quick in every department.

Men's, Youths', Boys' and Children's stock are equally affected. Here is the evidence:

We offer our Fall and Winter stock of Men's and Youths' Cassimere and Cheviot Suitings that were made to sell for $8, $9, $10, $12 and $13, Sacks and Frocks, at $6.87.

We offer Men's and Youths' Fall and Winter Suitings in Cassimere and Cheviots that were made to sell for $14, $15 and $18, Sacks and Frocks, at $9.47.

We offer Men's and Youths' Fall and Winter Cassimere and Cheviot Suitings that were made to sell for $16, $18 and $20, Sacks and Frocks, at $11.67.

We offer Fall and Winter Suitings for Men and Youths that were made to sell for $18, $20, $22, $24 and $25, Sacks and Frocks, at $14.37.

We offer Boys' Long Pant Suits, Fall and Winter weights, that were made to sell for $5, $6 and $6.50 at $3.94.

Those made to sell for $7, $8 and $9 at $4.74.

Those made to sell for $10 and $12 at $6.84.

And those made to sell for $12 and $15 at $8.64.

These reductions represent a shrinkage upon our stock made for this Fall's business of from

25 to 50 PER CENT.,

But there's no use waiting until after the season is over to meet the change. We will meet the loss now, and those who need Clothing can have the benefit of free wool now. Original prices are left upon the goods, as well as the reduced price, so that the inexperienced may easily ascertain the saving that we make to them on a Suit or an Overcoat.

Our stock of Clothing is the largest in the West. It contains upwards of one thousand patterns, subject to this slaughter or free-wool sale.

All goods in Hats or Gents' Furnishings that are affected by the Tariff are marked for the sacrifice, beginning to-morrow.

WOMEN DID IT

Great Victory for the Fair Sex in Kentucky's Ashland District.

Col. Breckinridge's Code of Morals and Treatment of Madeline Pollard Condemned in No Uncertain Tones.

W. C. OWENS FOR CONGRESS

Nominated at the Democratic Primaries by a Safe Plurality.

The "Silver-Tongued Persuader" Almost Repudiated by His Own County, Which Gave Him but 205 Plurality.

FAIRLY QUIET ELECTION

One or Two Persons Injured, but No Serious Shedding of Blood.

Desha Breckinridge's Face Scratched by an Opponent of His Father—The Women's Last Appeal to Voters.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 15.—No election or other occasion ever caused such a general suspension of business and daily duties as the contest to-day between W. C. Owens, W. C. P. Breckinridge and E. E. Settle for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Ashland district. For months the district has been agitated in the most bitter personal agitation. It was not a political, not even a factional fight. It was a moral contest for weeks and months, and during the last few days it became intensely personal, so much so that the nomination was not the only issue. Colonel Breckinridge was fighting for life, and he never before made such speeches or displayed such executive ability in organization. He marshaled every man he could command, but he could not command the women. They had no votes but they were the controlling element in the fight.

At the Owens headquarters to-night the claims have run up from 400 at 7 o'clock to two, three, four and even five times that plurality, and they say in their rejoicing: "The ladies did it." The ladies could not get ward workers to their prayer meetings or other gatherings, but their organization of committees of one generally got promises at home out of voters who needed no watching on entering the booths. With the saloons closed, the women praying, and the best influences all aroused, there was a quiet election, although excitement and bitter feeling was at the highest pitch.

The greatest surprise of the day was the good order everywhere. There were some personal encounters, but not as many as usual at closely contested elections. There was, however, great precaution to prevent trouble. Old friends and neighbors had been having their inning, and they wanted only the voting to-day. If the Breckinridge men had challenged as strictly as had been expected, there would have been trouble. So closely had the canvassing and polling been done that the challengers knew how almost all the Democrats stood, and they could have kept many from voting. It was generally understood that the Republican managers favored Breckinridge, as they thought in the event of his nomination their candidate would not be hopeless. Very few Republicans, however, voted. As many precincts are long distances from telegraph offices, the complete returns will not likely be known before to-morrow, but Owens seems to be so much in the lead that it will not require the complete returns to settle the result.

RETURNS FROM THE PRIMARIES.

Owens's Plurality in the District Placed at Over 1,000.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15.—The papers as well as the people here have taken as much interest in the Ashland district contest as if they were in it. The papers have returns from all precincts that can be reached to-night. The Enquirer puts Owens's plurality at 1,025 and the Commercial Gazette at 1,150. Owens's pluralities are: Scott county, 1,200; Oldham, 144; Woodford, 100; Franklin, 821. Breckinridge's pluralities are: Fayette, 205; Bourbon, 131; Henry, 452. Settle has a majority of 1,600 in his county (Owen) over both, but it is the only county he carries and does not affect the result. Owens carries his county by 1,200 and Breckinridge by 205.

Reduced to 238.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 15.—Following is the vote by counties complete in the Ashland district contest as received by the Courier Journal up to midnight, and is believed to be nearly correct. These figures greatly reduce Mr. Owens's plurality. Breckinridge polled a large vote in Owen and Henry counties, but it is thought Owens has been nominated beyond a doubt. The result, however, will not be known before to-morrow or Monday.

	Owens.	Breckinridge.	Settle.
Bourbon	1,020	1,021	38
Fayette	1,512	1,775	440
Scott	1,548	531	129
Henry	452	1,038	14
Woodford	1,000	995	283
Franklin	821	1,142	1,560
Owen	238	1,142	663
Henry	452	1,038	14
Oldham	144	243	265
Total	7,821	7,553	2,390
Owens's plurality,	228

Claimed by Both.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 15.—At 11:30 both Breckinridge and Owens claim victory, the former by 113 and the latter by 20. The result is very close and will take official count to decide.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY.

Fight Near Versailles, in Which One Man Was Stabbed.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 15.—There was some excitement all day at many places in the Ashland district, but no serious trouble, except in the Faywood neighborhood, four miles east of Versailles, where there was a fight between eighteen or twenty Breckinridge and Owens men, the result of a discussion of the outlook. G. W. Gillespie, a Breckinridge man, was stabbed twice with a dirk just above the heart and in the back, dangerously wounding him. It was impossible to find out who did the cutting, every one of the participants in the fight becoming as "mum" as an oyster. The wounded man said he was going to Versailles "to vote for Bill Breckinridge" if it killed him. The physicians who dressed his wounds said he would die if he persisted in carrying out his declaration.

In Lexington there was much suppressed excitement, but general good order. The polls opened at 7 o'clock and voting came in rapidly. In some precincts challenges were numerous, but few votes were refused. The most notable exception was Prof. A. V. Gordon, of Allegan Academy, a confederate soldier, whose intention to support the nominee was challenged and who refused to pledge himself to support Breckinridge. His vote was refused, and the incident created considerable excitement.

A prayer meeting was held at Morrison Chapel at noon, attended by over one hundred, mostly ladies and college students. Prayers were offered by Elder J. W. McGarvey, Rev. E. H. Ward, Rev. W. F. V. Bartlett and Prof. J. B. Jones, all of whom appeared for divine guidance in to-day's election without making any personal application or indicating any candidate.

At Frankfort the election proceeded quietly. The Breckinridge men did not take advantage of the pledging of voters, according to the rule adopted by the district committee last Saturday, because of Judge Cantrell's injunction restraining them from so doing. The women held prayer meetings and made themselves potent factors otherwise against Colonel Breckinridge.

Desha B. Seeks a Fight.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 15.—Desha Breckinridge was passing the polling place of Precinct D this afternoon when he saw J. Walker Peak, a strong Owens worker, inside the booth preparing an affidavit. Desha spoke to him through the window, and told him that he had no business in there and that he had better come out. Peak replied that he would not come out, and Breckinridge went in the booth after him. The two men clinched, but were separated. Peak soon afterward came out, when Breckinridge met him the second time and a lively fight followed. Both men had their faces scratched, several blows being passed. In the last light they were separated before they had a chance to draw their weapons. Desha rode to all precincts, personally inspecting them, during the day.

Colonel Clay was not challenged at Paris, as had been expected, and Captain Bradshaw's preparations to "get off the earth" were unnecessary.

Lively Time at Lockport.

EMINENCE, Ky., Sept. 15.—Elections to-day, with one exception, passed off with the best of order and without serious trouble. The exception occurred at Lockport, in the east end of Henry county. It is claimed that an importation of Shelby county men arrived at this precinct to be voted, when they were challenged by the Breckinridge challenger, who was promptly knocked down. Pistols and knives were drawn, and when the smoke cleared away James Hoskins was found seriously cut and many were bruised and injured. The precinct will be protested.

Late this afternoon J. T. Williams and Chief of Police James B. Ellis engaged in a hot discussion of words. Williams came to blows, but was quickly separated by friends. Trouble of a serious nature is expected, as both are game men.

Colonel Stoner Uses His Fist.

PARIS, Ky., Sept. 15.—At Centerville, W. A. Gaines, a Breckinridge man, ordered the Breckinridge judge to pay no attention to the injunction against the gag rule, passed by the committee last week. Col. R. G. Stoner, an Owens man, and owner of Oakland stock farm, and Gaines had some words on the street, to-night over Gaines's action. Stoner slapped Gaines and knocked him down. Colonel Stoner is the gentleman who slapped Breckinridge during the war.

WORK OF THE WOMEN.

Their Last Appeal in the Fight of Virtue Against Vice.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 15.—The women of the Ashland district cannot be given too much credit for the defeat of Colonel Breckinridge. They have worked unceasingly since the notorious scandal became public to retire the "silver-tongued persuader," as Breckinridge has been called, to private life. Their last appeal to the men of the Ashland district was made this morning. It follows:

"We, the wives, mothers and sisters of many of the voters of the Ashland district appeal to the voters to help us win this fight against Colonel Breckinridge. It is the fight of virtue against vice, and we appeal to the brave men of this Ashland district to help us win this fight, and we will pledge ourselves to go on from this to other and equally useful victories, and in a short time we will free our lovely city from the curses which now enslave our beloved ones, the saloons, the grocer's grocery, the houses of the scarlet women, the gambling hell, the race track, and will redress the fair name of our city and of our district."

A woman who has all along contributed strong articles to the press, taking a high plain for morality, in a two-column card, this morning, said, in part: "I speak to neither Breckinridge, Owens nor Settle this morning, but to Kentuckyans. I ask them to pause for a moment in the heat of the conflict and upon the subject their proud title to a crucial test, and if, as honest men, they can prove their right to wear it on their hearts as a talisman against this evil day, to step forth loyally to defend this right, aye, even as their ancestors defended it, about the nation's demand, with the sacrifice of their heart's blood. If you are traitors to the name, if you have forgotten the glorious past of your beloved state, if you insult her present and recklessly stain the pages of her future history with shame, if you would fine your proud birthright into the dust and spurn it with a vandal's foot, if you would mar the native land, your mother State, upon whose eyes first opened and whose tender arms will one day receive you when life's race is run, then let God forgive you, for history never will. No State in the Union has been so distinguished for its pride and sentimentality as Kentucky. Beyond the seas in foreign lands the magic word Kentucky has been an open sesame to recognition and respect. To-day beyond our narrow State confines stands a waiting civilization, with its code of judgment and commendation of men who threatened to tear with ruthless hands from the altars of their homes the standards of virtue and morality that one man, and that man the despoiler of our beloved State, may again represent our people at the national capital."

The idea of Breckinridge to create the impression abroad through his speeches that ladies here endorsed him was ridiculous. Hardly a woman in the city of Lexington will speak to him, on the street, though she has known him for twenty years, except she be the wife or mother of one of his followers, who has been influenced into it, like most of his following, by promise or prospect of reward. The women of Lexington were up in arms against sending Breckinridge back to Congress, and had to-day's primary proved favorable to him no doubt that they to the people would have continued till the November election had passed.
